Senator Mark C. Jansen of the 28th District offered the following invocation:

Dear Heavenly Father, thank You for another day in December when we get to think about this holiday season. For many of us, it is about the birth of Your Son, and for others it's not. Either way, we give You the honor and praise for You have blessed Michigan with natural resources, beauty, and the seasons. You have made color in the leaves and now snow soon to come again. We also have fresh water—more than anyone else in the world—and we thank You for that gift. Help us take care of the gifts that You have given us.

We pray for our families. Many of us have left them back at home, so we pray that You would protect them. We pray for the state of Michigan, the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, all the leaders in the House and Senate, and the judiciary. We pray, Lord, that we would be wise with our resources and our decisions.

We pray that You would be with us now in the last few days of this session. Help us be wise in the decisions we make then also.

We can only ask all of these things in Your name. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Calley, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Pappageorge's statement is as follows:

Mr. Lieutenant Governor, Senate colleagues, and guests, thank you for the opportunity to deliver my farewell address after having served in this august body for eight years. As many of you know, I resisted becoming a Senator for a number of years. Nevertheless, I am extremely grateful for the opportunity the citizens of the 13th Senate District have given me to serve them and all of Michigan.

I was recently asked three questions. The first is: Is this the best job I've ever had? The second is: How would you like to be remembered? The third is: What's next for you? I'll answer the first question now and the other two at the end of my speech. With regard to the first question, I thought back over the many things I got to do over my life and recalled that between my junior and senior years in high school, I was a lifeguard at a girls camp in Wisconsin. It's been downhill ever since.

Kidding aside, I've had a really interesting life. As a cadet at West Point, I internalized the academy's motto of "Duty, Honor, Country." A cadet will not lie, cheat, or steal or condone it in others. Nor will a cadet quibble, which is defined as using a small truth to tell a bigger lie. However imperfectly, I've tried to live my life based on the ideal of duty, honor, and country.

During my 30 years on active duty in the Infantry, I became a paratrooper, a Ranger, and a pathfinder. I served at every staff level from battalion to the Department of Defense and NATO. I commanded units from platoon up through battalion—the latter in combat in Vietnam during my second tour there. I was an instructor in the Ranger Department. Years later, I taught management and leadership at the Army War College.

I ended my career on loan to the State Department on the Secretary of State's Policy Planning Council. This followed my having succeeded in secret shuttle diplomacy known only to the President, Secretaries of State and Defense, and my boss, NATO's Supreme Allied Commander for Europe. I negotiated with the Greeks and the Turks to return Greek military forces to NATO's integrated military structure without a Turkish veto. The Greeks had withdrawn their military forces from NATO following the Turkish invasion of Cyprus and faced them towards Turkey. The Turks stayed in NATO but faced their forces toward Greece. Consequently, 50 percent of NATO's total ground forces were facing each other instead of the Soviets.

Upon finishing at the State Department and retiring, I returned to Michigan, where I had grown up on the east side of Detroit, and became the director of Business and Strategic Planning General Dynamic Land Systems, a $4 billion company. They paid me well, but they could only make my in-box deeper and not broader. So, after seven years, at age 60, I retired again and began my fourth career, in politics, which included serving as the first chair of the Michigan Republican Party, as well as in local, county, and state offices, ending with my eight years here in the Senate.

I'm told by Senate Fiscal that at age 83, I'll be the oldest person ever to have served in the Senate. We come to every challenge in life with the attitudes and insights we've experienced in the past that, in turn, tend to predict how we'll act in the future. It's the reason why I outlined some of my past history. After all, it's been said that if you live long enough, the sum total of all you've experienced and the mistakes you've made lead to the beginning of wisdom. With apologies to my caucus, this is why I had so much to say in the caucus room and why I never violated the confidentiality of what I or anyone else had to say in those meetings. I chose to influence events in the caucus room rather than in revelations outside that room.

This is not to say that I did not let my constituents know later how I voted and why. I take satisfaction in my influence over the budget process and the fact that, with over 14 years in the House and Senate, I brought in every budget I chaired under the ceiling that had been established for it. I also take pride in a large number of policy bills that were signed into law on a variety of issues large and small. Finally, I never took what some might call a tough vote, because doing what I thought was the right thing to do was never a tough vote for me.

This leads me to the second question I spoke of at the beginning of my remarks. I'd like to be remembered not for any given piece of legislation, but rather for how I conducted myself day in and day out with everyone. One of my personal satisfactions was being able to work with and mentor some really outstanding people. Hopefully, you'll remember me as a decent and honest man who did what he thought was right.

I would leave you with these words of wisdom. Bad news never gets better with age; deal with it. Think big, set the long-term goal, and work each smaller piece to get there. Be bold. As we say in the Infantry, "When you're told to take a hill, take it the first time." As Governor Engler used to say, "Good policy is good politics." Don't vote yellow unless you are.

In closing, whatever I accomplished here, the lion's share of credit goes to the superb efforts of those who served on my staff over the years: Justin Winslow, Kristen Brown, Jackie Mosher, Jessica Peterson, Anthony Fernandez, Jessica VanDenBos, Amanda Comment, Kenny Long, Caroline Liethen, Aubree Krause, Brittany Lewandowski, Jeff Cassidy, Corinne Khedarian, Rebacca Kurta, and Justin Dickman. Why so many, you ask? Because they were so good, they kept getting hired away to better jobs. At which time, my job was to throw them a going-away party. I'm proud of all of them.

For those who have asked what my fifth career will be. I plan to write a book or two about some of the stuff I did that has been declassified, but I won't be doing anything before 9:00.

Lastly, I want to thank my wife Cristina, who is here with me today. She has great common sense and political insight. She's been the wind beneath my wings in everything—in good times and bad. I love you, babe.

By unanimous consent the Senate returned to the order of

Statements

Senator Young asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Young's statement is as follows:

I rise today because there is a bill that I think is a horrible piece of legislation. It was introduced in the House and referred to the Michigan Competitiveness Committee that, basically, bans community benefit agreements. I think this is a total overreach of state government and completely destroys constitutional federalism and the State Constitution as we know it today. It would throw this state into a constitutional crisis.

The reason I am up here today is not so much because of that, but because of what happened when it came to the City Council president of Detroit, Brenda Jones. She came all the way up here from Detroit to represent the city at-large, in its entirety, to testify against this bill, and she was not allowed. Now, Mr. President, we can disagree. We cannot see eye-to-eye on certain things. There might even be times we are furious with each other, but we must be gentlemen and gentlewomen and at least be willing to hear each other out. That is the fundamental building block, the foundation of democracy as we know it. For her to come all the way up here at 8:30 in the morning, an hour and a half trip, arrive at the committee meeting on a bill horribly against everything Detroit stands for; for a man who probably hasn't been to Detroit since Ronald Regan was President; about a bill no one wants and not even have the opportunity to represent the constituents. This is just not who we are. That is not what we are about.

You can vote for it or against it. You are in the majority; we lost the election. I get it. I understand. But at least allow us the right to be heard. That is what my people, the people in the city of Detroit feel like. They feel like when they talk to the lawmakers in Lansing, their voices don't count. A lot of bad things happen up here; a lot of bad, horrible things that were imposed on the citizens rather than done for the citizens.

If there is one thing that we can say about the character, spirit, and body of this institution, it should be that you may agree or disagree with the policy, but everyone has the right to be heard and be listened to; to redress their grievances. When we get rid of that First Amendment constitutional principle, we dissolve that right, and we annihilate that virtue. When we don't stand on that principle, who are we as a state? Who are we as a nation? Michigan is the beacon of light and the symbol of hope and the desire of the Midwest; the crème de la crème; the head and not the tail; above and not beneath. When we do things like that, it attacks the character of who we are. We are bigger than that, and we are better than that.

I don't like the way she was treated. It was wrong, and in the future, let's use this example to make sure it doesn't happen again.
